Wayne Rehabilitation Center

for behavioral and mental health

This proposed facility will be fashioned to represent a cutting-edge treatment that approaches mental health in a proactive holistically and personalized manner.

That is, traditional and basic psychiatric modalities will prevail as a baseline, following the precept that mind/brain drives behavior. This universal concept is a top-down approach.

The holistic model also includes the supposition that the gut microbiome, that is, the gut bacteria and its health is also a major determining factor in mental health presentation and resiliency.

This new and convincing perspective can be drawn from the works of Perlmutter, Hyman, Wahls and others. Therefore, the inclusion of gut dysbiosis and repair, hormone normalization, nutrition optimization, and nutraceutical supplementation to name a few, guides the treatment of the whole individual. This is the bottom-up component of the blueprint.

All these processes will be administered by qualified medical and mental health professionals and staff. Treatment will be traditional insurance-billed and self-pay.

The overriding goal of this approach is to develop resilient individuals that proactively and effectively integrate and contribute in society.
